Dear Editor:

You were nice enough to send us a copy of the article entitled "The Real 1804 Dollar," by Ed Reiter, in the November 1991 issue. First I spoke to you and learned that the reprint which was sent out was handled by Scott Travers with Ed Reiter's permission. Since this is one of my favorite subjects, I may respond to the article if you want me to.

As you may know, we have a very large library of American numismatic publications which has COINAGE MAGAZINE complete up through June 1989. After that, we no longer remained on your free mailing list. I would certainly like you to fill in the missing numbers, beginning in July 1989 and continuing into the future. Our entire library operation is pro bono, and you and your authors are welcome to its use at any time. Thank you for any consideration you may wish to give us.

My kindest regards to Jim Miller.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in dark ink, appearing to read 'Eric P. Newman', with a long horizontal flourish extending to the right.
